Sharing

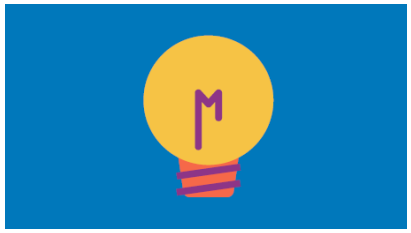

You can look at the illustrations and discuss the difficulty and reward associated with giving: What does the rabbit look like when he voluntarily shares his seeds? What is his facial expression when the wind “takes” them from him? In your opinion, how would someone feel while sharing something they care about with us? Is there anything that you find hard to share with others?

Giving out bags of love

This book can inspire you to prepare bags of love together,and fill them with whatever makes you happy: Cookies you've baked together, hand-drawn greeting cards, or even some seeds collected from fruits or plants. Now you can embark on a journey of giving, and surprise your loved ones.

Our Path of Giving

You can visualize your path of giving together: Will it be long or short? Winding or straight? Which colors would you pick for it? You can draw this path using cotton swabs dipped in paint, follow the dots in the illustrations, and create a variety of colorful flowers "in a glorious mess".

Let's Go Outside and Observe

You can go for a walk near your home and examine the environmental changes brought about by the weather. Perhaps flowers are in bloom? Or maybe leaves are falling? You can choose one spot and take pictures of it in different seasons, looking for the changes in nature captured in the photographs.
