Getting Lost

Many children are afraid to get lost. You can discuss this and share your own experiences as children. Or ask your child: Have you ever gotten lost or lost something you cared about? How did you feel? What can you do when that happens?

הַמְחָזָה

Drama

You can dramatize this story and become Adam and his dog searching for one another.

After you have found each other and are reunited, you can continue acting and imagine what will happen next at sunrise.

Drawing and Searching

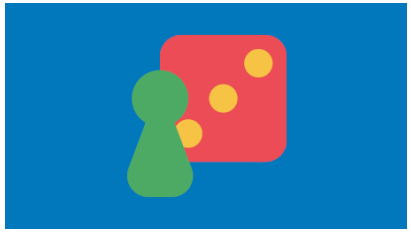

You can be inspired by the rich illustrations in this book to draw a large and detailed family drawing together. You can then play the searching game – take turns choosing a detail for everyone else to find. For example: “Where is the red shoe hiding?”

Family Reading — From Chore to Game

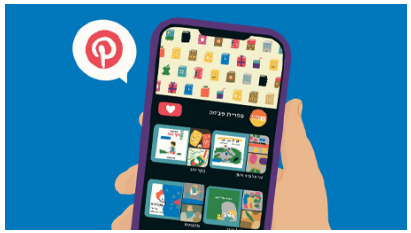

Daily chores such as tidying up the house can be turned into a fun game. You can be inspired by Adam and his dog and set up your own elite unit for the return of lost items to their proper place. To get into the right mood, you can announce which toys are looking for their way back to their proper place on your “radio”.
