A discussion about my name

Excuse me, what is your name? You may enjoy discussing your names: Why were you, parents, named so? And what has made you choose the names you have chosen for your children? Do you have any nicknames? How did you come by them?

Moving along with Yoyo

Yoyo jumps, sits, climbs... Each illustration depicts Yoyo in a different posture. You may want to act out what Yoyo does, and have the rest of your family members look for the page in the book that shows him in the same position. Were you able to do so? Then it's time for another member of your family to have a go.

שְׁמַע

I'm always me — Datia Ben Dor

Are you sometimes happy and at other times sad? So is Datia, who wrote the book, and also wrote the lyrics of the well-known children's song I'm Always Me, the music of which was composed by Uzzi Hitman. Scan the QR code and sing along!

Arts & crafts — A front door sign

How about getting the following – a cardboard rectangle, crayons, stickers, and some plasticine, if you like – to make a sign for your front door or bedroom door? Write your name at the center of it, color it, decorate it, and hang it on the door! And how about this idea – print out a photograph of yourselves, add it to the sign, and write your names too.
