

By: Anat Warshavsky
Illustrations: Anat Warshavsky
הוצאה: כנרת
Age Group: Preschool (3–5)

Family reading advice

A book can convey an idea in just a few words. In such a book, the illustrations are a window enabling observations and discussions about the world of children. Through them, we can discover how imagination and creative thinking can turn seemingly worthless things into valuable ones. You should take a close look at the illustrations and what they tell us and ask: Is a bottle cap that does not fit any bottle qualify as garbage? What else can pipes be used for?

What does stam (“just” or “nothing much”) mean?

You can discuss and ask: What do we do at home that qualifies as stam (nothing much)? What does stam (“just” or “nothing much”) even mean? Do we enjoy things that we do stam? How about we do something stam together right now?

How does a hoop turn into a hot air balloon?

And how can we encourage creative thinking? Scan the code and watch some creative ideas.

משחק

Stam ("just") objects

Just like in the video, you too can look for an item and invent a new use for it: What can you do with "just" a bottle? And how can you play with "just" a paper roll?

יצירה

Shapes in the sand

Following the arts & crafts in this book, you too can go outside and check: What do you see when you make a shoe imprint in the sand? Or an imprint of your hand? Or a leaf? And what can you draw in the sand using a stick?

השראה

Pinterest

More arts & crafts and other activities can be found on the Sifriyat Pijama Pinterest page

www.pjisrael.org More activities on the Pajama Library website