Here's a cat

Which cat do you find the most amusing? Which cat is your child's favorite? You may enjoy looking at the cover together and focusing on the different cats. You could also look at various images of cats, or go out of the house to observe them in your neighborhood: who knows what kinds of special cats roam the streets near your home...?

כְּלָלִי

Filling in the blanks

This fun-filled book invites infants to complete the text based on the amusing rhymes. We recommend reading it gradually: the first time you read it, complete the missing words yourself, next time – allow your child to complete them with whatever comes to mind: they can fill in the blanks with their own range of choices, there is no reason to stick to a single answer.

מִשְׂחָק

Amusing opposites

You may want to play cat charades: one of you can act out “brave cat” or “big cat”, and the rest of you can join it to form a clowder of cats.

יְצִירָה

Cat puppet

How about using an old sock as a cat puppet? Put a face on it, and use it to play and read together!
