

By: Amy Krouse Rosenthal
Illustrations
הוֹצָאָה: ספר לכל
Age Group: Daycare (2-3)

כְּלָלִי

You may want to snuggle up on the couch together
You may want to snuggle up on the couch together, give your child a kiss, and ask them when they like to be kissed, whether they like to be woken up with a kiss, and who they like kissing.

כְּלָלִי

While reading the story
While reading the story, we suggest pausing before the kiss sprouts, and asking your child whether or not they think the kiss will indeed grow. You could let them leaf through the book, and try to discover the rest of the story for themselves.

הַשְׁרָאָה

Little Miss plants

Little Miss plants, waters, and cares for her kiss. Your child can also help you plant some flowers or grow a vegetable patch. You could also sprout beans or chickpeas, and observe the magic of growth.

כְּלָלִי

You may enjoy going on a kissing spree around the house

You may enjoy going on a kissing spree around the house, giving all family members kisses, calling your grandparents, uncles, and aunts and blowing them kisses over the telephone, and feeling how pleased kisses make your entire family, and how much joy they bring.

יְצִירָה

You may want to put on some lipstick, and fill a blank sheet of paper with colorful kisses

You may want to put on some lipstick, and fill a blank sheet of paper with colorful kisses. Once your sheet of paper is full, you can cut out the kisses, and use them to decorate your child's bedroom.

בְּשׁוּל

6. How about baking kisses

How about baking kisses (Hebrew for baked meringues) and giving them out to your loved ones?

Ingredients

8 egg whites

1 ½ cups of sugar

1 teaspoon of fresh lemon juice

Method

Heat your oven to 130 degrees.

Whisk the egg whites with the sugar and lemon juice until the mixture is stiff and glossy.

Line a baking pan with parchment paper, put the mixture into a pastry bag, and pipe meringues onto the pan.

Bake for approximately two hours.

Give away your meringues (kisses) to all your friends, neighbors and family!

Enjoy reading and doing the activities together!