Tip for Family Reading

Books featuring characters who are imperfect and make mistakes generate empathy, and enable a discussion on subjects that are not easy to directly address. Use this book to spark a discussion and ask questions about the characters' actions and feelings to encourage your children to express their own inner thoughts and feelings.

Asking for Forgiveness

You may want to ask your children: “What did you think about what Chico said to Pilchas?” “Which situations may lead to a hurtful exchange?”. You can also discuss similar situations they had to deal with, and ask: “Have you ever said something you later regretted?”, “Did you say you were sorry?” “How did you feel afterwards?”

Watch & Learn!

What is the speed of sound that the rabbit was trying to achieve? This Davidson Institute of Science video will teach you all about it using a fun experiment with a sound pipe.

There are many ways to say I’m sorry

You can help Chico ask for Pilchas’ forgiveness in various ways – a letter, drawing, poem, or dance. “Helping” Chico will enable children to develop their own forgivenessasking skills, and help fix situations even when they seem too hard.

Becoming Marksmen

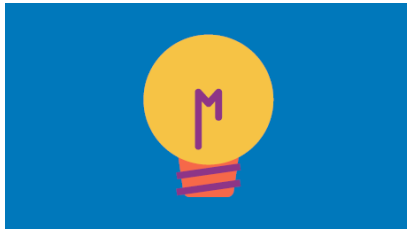

You can be inspired by this book to have your own marksmanship competition. You can make a bow and arrow using sticks and elastic bands, or take turns shooting balls into a bucket. Don't forget to decide which of the forest animals you are!
